Gerardine, 10, selected from 900 hopefuls to sing a solo at London's O2 Arena in front of a crowd of thousands

BY DEBRA FOX

A BUDDING performer is about to have her dreams come true as she gets the chance to perform to an audience of thousands.

Ten-year-old Gerardine Nacionales, of Mallow Walk, Haverhill, will sing a solo at London's O2 Arena in July after being selected from around 900 hopefuls.

She will sing Bring me to Life by Evanescence in front of an estimated 9,000 people.

Gerardine, who goes to St Felix RC Primary School, could hardly believe it when she heard she'd been chosen.

"I actually cried when they announced it. I was really surprised," she said.

For the past five years, Gerardine has been taking classes at the Cambridge East branch of Theatretrain, a company which offers professional training in the arts for young people aged between six and 18.

Groups across the country are uniting for a special show at the O2 to celebrate Theatretrain's 20th birthday, and this is where she will get her chance to shine.

Mum Cherry, 47, said her daughter had always loved to sing.

SOLO: Gerardine Nacionales

She said: "Gerardine started singing at a very early age.

"When I sang Baa Baa Black Sheep to her she would sing in her baby voice 'Yes Sir, Yes Sir'.

"She sang in a karaoke when she was 18 months old and her first song was Words by the Bee Gees."

She was also chosen to sing in Haverhill's Jubilee Concert last year and auditioned for Britain's Got Talent, despite being struck down with laryngitis.

She plans to audition again this year for the 2014 live shows.

Cherry, who also lives with seven-year-old son Gericho and husband Gerardo, 50, said: "It has been her dream to sing somewhere like the O2.

"I remember going to watch Theatretrain and seeing someone doing the big solo and thinking that one day it would be Gerardine up there."

The talented schoolgirl has already decided that she wants to make a future out of performing and despite the upcoming big show, she does not feel too nervous just yet.

Gerardine said: "I probably practice four times a day. I get the backing track out and perform in front of the mirror.

"I like doing it because it gets me more used to singing. It's really fun and I get to learn different things."

Ruth McKechnie, Director of Theatretrain for Cambridge East, is also very proud of her pupil's success.

She said: "She's got a really strong voice for a child her age and I think she's got her heart set on doing this."

The groups will perform at the O2 Arena on July 14, and mum Cherry says that the whole family, including Gerardine's grandmother from the Philippines, will be there to watch.

Spring chickens at Tiny Toes

THE pitter patter of tiny feet have been heard loud and clear at a Haverhill pre-school.

Much to the delight of the children – and the staff – four chicks hatched at Tiny Toes, in Sturmer.

The first newborn arrived on June 13, followed by the other three.

The children have been anxiously waiting for the arrival of their new friends so the important task of naming the chicks can start.

Tiny Toes have welcomed two yellow Frizzle Bantam chicks, one black Legbar Bantam and one multi-coloured Legbar Bantam. The sexes are not yet known.

Do you have an idea for some good chick names? Email our reporter debra.fox@cambridge-news.co.uk with your suggestions and we'll pass them on.

Summer Bash 2013

Haverhill Recreation Ground
Sunday 21st July 2013
Haverhill's Biggest Community Fundraising Day

It's showtime!

Preparations are in full swing for the 'biggest and best show Haverhill has ever seen': The Summer Bash 2013

DEBRA FOX

THE 'biggest and best show Haverhill has seen for years' will take place in July.

The Summer Bash, on July 21, will be held on the town's Recreation Ground and a mega day of fun with activities for all the family is promised by the organisers.

Chairman of the committee David Doughty said the vision was to put on a show that Haverhill could be proud of, as well as raising money for good causes.

He said: "I got fed up with going on holiday and walking into a little village and seeing a fantastic show.

"For the size of Haverhill we could easily knock the socks off others."

David said that he wanted the Summer Bash to be all about showcasing the talent in the town and using Haverhill's resources to put on a great event.

Local businesses, volunteers, attractions and talents are teaming up for the day, which will run from 11am until 5pm, with a 'lazy' car boot sale starting at 8am.

Mr Doughty is a photographer and has run a baby competition at previous shows in the town.

OH BABY: David Doughty with Daisy Lancee, who won the 2012 Baby Show run at the Haverhill Show

He said: "There is going to be lots going on, and it's almost all from local businesses.

"It's Haverhill businesses and Haverhill talent putting on a show for the people of Haverhill and raising money for Haverhill good causes."

As well as drawing on the skills of the town's residents, all proceeds raised are going solely to local organisations who David and the rest of the show's committee believe need help.

Lamp H will be the main beneficiary of the Summer

Bash, with money also going towards The Food Bank, the Scouts and the elderly people of the town.

David said: "Instead of helping out a charity that has teams which fundraise for them, we wanted to help out local groups who haven't got a lot of support behind them."

The show is already set up to provide as much variety as you could ask for with dancing, music and other entertainment.

There will also be a splash of a traditional carnival with a baby show, cake show, dog show and flower show all taking place on the day.

A big event promises to be the tug of war, taking place between the town's pub teams and leisure centre teams.

Though the entertainment for the day has been arranged, extra help is still needed.

David said the Town Council, who are supporting the show, are providing marshalls but more volunteers are needed in order to ensure a smooth-running day.

He said: "It's time we had a show to be proud of again, especially since the town has grown massively in the last 10 or 15 years."

A raffle will also be going on and donations to use as prizes will be greatly appreciated.

If you're interested in getting involved with the show please contact David on david@daviddoughty.co.uk or call 01440 712333.

You can also visit David's photography and video shop at The Gallery, 8 Queen's Square, Haverhill.

Nursery holds family fun day

AN OUTSTANDING nursery who received the top grade in a recent Ofsted inspection are opening their doors for a family fun day this weekend.

Blois Meadow Day Nursery, Steeple Bumpstead, Haverhill, are inviting prospective parents and children to view the top premises and facilities as well as taking part in some fun and games.

The family fun day will run from 10am until 2pm at the nursery on Saturday. The event will include refreshments as well as entertainment for the children.

The nursery received its golden seal of approval in May, less than eight months after husband and wife Ross and Alison Midgley, from Hempstead, took it over.

War veteran talks to students

STUDENTS at Linton Village College gained an insight into the Second World War during a visit by one of the last surviving members of Bomber Command.

Flight Lieutenant Harry Howe, 94, from Great Abington, gave a talk to Year 9 students about his experiences as a rear gunner based at RAF Stradishall.

Harry Howe was 19 when World War Two broke out.

He joined the RAF and volunteered to fly with Bomber Command. On arrival at the squadron, his Commanding Officer told him to write his will as his life expectancy was just six weeks, but he survived 29 flying operations and lived to tell the tale.

Ruth Durham, Head of History, said: "It was a privilege to welcome Harry Howe to LVC and the students were enthralled by his experiences.

"The year nines have been studying World War Two and his talk brought the reality of war much closer to home."

Queen gets the nod in coronation concert

MORE than 60 people attended a concert to tie in with the Queen's coronation celebrations.

The Haverhill Choral Society joined in with countrywide celebrations for the anniversary of the Queen's coronation in 1953 and held a performance packed to the brim with favourite songs from the heyday.

The concert was part of the ongoing Haverhill Festival, and took place at the Arts Centre on June 16 at 3pm.

The slot included songs from Frank Sinatra, Doris Day and Suffolk composer Benjamin Britten.

Haverhill Choral Society has finished performing for this season but they are already thinking about the next step. Their annual general meeting will take place on July 8 at Samuel Ward Academy.

Anyone interested in joining is welcome to visit and rehearsals for the upcoming Christmas Concert, to be held at Hundon Church on December 14, will start in September.

Ducklings get on their marks

MINI athletes from a day nursery did not let the risk of rain ruin their fun.

Boys and girls from Dizzy Ducks, at Homefield Business Park, Homefield Road, Haverhill, enjoyed an afternoon of sports, fun and games at their annual sports day on Tuesday.

The little ones put their best foot forward for a variety of races and other activities and spent a happy couple of hours showing mum and dad what they're made of.

Sophie Gale, of Dizzy Ducks, said: "It was really great and they are all very revved up and excited."

"The children did a variety of things from egg and spoon to a little bit of football."

"I would say that most of the children's parents were there and they'd brought along grandparents as well."

Parents were also invited to take part in their own race to try and keep up with their little ones.

It was an extra stroke of luck that the rain did not make an appearance after all.

Dizzy Ducks also have nurseries in Harlow, Ongar and Billericay as well as an Out of School centre in Haverhill.

Three illegal immigrants found in restaurant

A LINTON restaurant could be facing a large fine after three illegal immigrants were found working there.

The Bangladeshi men, aged 42, 38 and 21 were working at The Linton Tandoori, Bartlow Road, when officers stormed the premises on June 8.

The three men, who did not have permission to be in the UK, tried to flee the scene.

The 42-year-old has been released on bail, pending removal, while the other two men are in immigration detention.

Robin Humphris, from Home Office Immigration Enforcement, said: "We are working hard to track down and remove from the country those who seek to abuse the UK's immigration laws."

"Operations like this are carried out regularly and we have no intention of slowing down."

Anyone with information about immigration crime can contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 anonymously or www.crimestoppers-uk.org

Pensioner's life 'was unbearable'

A PENSIONER who had her purse stolen by an undertaker at the scene of her own death, died of natural causes, an inquest ruled.

Muriel Swift, 78, was lying dead in her Linton home when Grahame Lawler, from Fulbourn, stole £200 in cash, plus credit cards and her PIN details, from her purse which lay just a few feet from her body.

The medical causes of her death, on July 6 last year, were recorded as deep vein thrombosis, a bilateral pulmonary embolism and immobilization of her left leg due to a fracture of the tibia and fibula.

Muriel, who lived alone and had no family, suffered from diabetes and chronic ulcers and was visited by carers twice a day.

She spent three months in hospital before her death after fracturing her tibia and fibula when she fell from her wheelchair.

LUCY ROSS-MILLAR

Jane Carpenter, a close friend for 16 years, said: "After her fall she became very down, she wasn't eating properly and it felt like she had given up, she just wanted to leave hospital."

"I asked someone to let me know when she was discharged but unfortunately no one did. When she got home she slept in her wheelchair as she couldn't get into her bed, she was sick and had lost the will to live. I questioned whether it was right she was discharged from hospital on June 30."

Carer, Kim Girling, was the last person to see Muriel on the night before her death.

She said: "I didn't usually visit Muriel so I had never met her before and arrived quite late after my other visits. She was a little agitated and told me to go but she seemed well in herself."

The following day Muriel was found dead.

Undertaker Grahame Lawler was sentenced to a four month prison sentence in November last year.

David Scott Morris, coroner for South and West Cambridgeshire, said: "Muriel didn't want to go to hospital in the first place, she wanted to remain at home. When she got home she realised the intensity of her situation and life was becoming unbearable. The cause of death is quite clear, Muriel died from natural causes."

Diamond celebration calls for tea and cake

A LOCAL charity shop is celebrating giving 60 years of incredible care with a fundraiser to mark their diamond year.

The Sue Ryder store, in Jubilee Walk, Haverhill, will hold two 1950s tea parties which, as well as refreshments, will boast a whole host of activities to enjoy.

The parties, to be held on June 27 and June 28, will include a raffle and tombola. There will also be music.

The parties run from 11am until 2pm.

Funds raised will help Sue Ryder to support people living with end of life and long-term conditions such as cancer, stroke, brain injury, multiple sclerosis, dementia, Huntington's disease, Parkinson's disease and motor neurone disease.

The charity was established in 1953 after Lady Ryder decided to dedicate her time to helping people after WWII.

Vision 2031 battle goes to the street

A UKIP councillor who has spoken out against the current Vision 2031 plans for Haverhill is taking his petition to the streets.

Cllr Tony Brown, who holds the county seat for Haverhill East and Kedington, previously told the Weekly News that he planned to start a petition against the current plans for redevelopment across Haverhill in the next 20 years.

He believes that the plans for the town have been made without the residents of Haverhill getting a say in what they would like to see.

The petition, which can now be signed online, will be in progress for the public consultation period for the plans, which started on June 18 and will last for eight weeks.

Cllr Brown said: "People have got the chance to get in and share their views.

"I am pushing to get into the public eye so people can see and understand what it actually means for the town."

The Vision 2031 plans have included developments for Bury St Edmunds and the surrounding rural areas as well as Haverhill.

They detail expected growth for the areas over the next 20 years as well as outlining where homes and other infrastructures, such as schools and businesses, can be built.

The UKIP councillor has also expressed his disappointment that the current plans for the town over the next two decades have not been more made more clear to the public in the first instance.

He said: "The vast majority of people in Haverhill don't even know what Vision 2031 means and they don't realise what's going to be happening to their town."

Cllr Brown will be on Haverhill High Street collecting signatures from 9.30am on Saturday.

Visit www.haverhill-uk.com to sign the petition online and visit www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk/vision2031 to view the current plans.

HOUSING: Councillors visited the Linton site before building work begins

Rural Housing Week kicks off in Linton ahead of building work

COUNCILLORS, architect representatives and housing staff celebrated Rural Housing Week at a Linton site where building work will begin in a few weeks time.

Cllr Mark Howell, South Cambridgeshire District Council cabinet member for housing, and Jean Hunter, council chief executive, joined housing and architect staff at the Chalklands site in Linton to celebrate the national initiative.

It also marked the imminent start of the building work of the first properties in South Cambridgeshire's building programme of council-owned homes.

Work on four one-bed semi-detached houses in Chalklands is due to start at the end of June, replacing an existing block of ten garages owned by the council.

They are due to be completed in 2014.

Cllr Mark Howell said: "We're committed to providing housing for local people and this is set to be a bumper year for doing just that."

Future of the town: it's your turn to speak up

THE set of plans which outline developments for Haverhill over the next 20 years have just started their period of public consultation.

The Vision 2031 framework, which also goes into plans for Bury St Edmunds and the surrounding rural areas, can be responded to up until August 9.

The consultation period began on Tuesday.

Haverhill has grown to having a population of more than 27,000 and it is expected that growth will continue in the future.

The town-wide vision, created by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, seeks to identify exactly how Haverhill will grow over the next two decades and how the demands that come with this expansion can be met.

It has been estimated that a further 4,260 new homes will have been built by 2031 to meet the need of growing households.

Most of this housing is set to be located to the north-west and north-east of the town.

As well as focusing on providing enough property to meet the expected growth, Haverhill Vision 2031 aspires to improve the town centre, create better transport links, and increase employment opportunities.

Land at Hanchet End is being allocated to Haverhill solely for employment, and the town centre will be the main focus for new retail, leisure and office development.

Other objectives include ensuring there are sufficient school places, further education facilities and training.

Following public consultation, the final draft of the plans will go the Planning Inspectorate to be checked independently.

You can respond to the public consultation document online, or post your comments through a consultation form which are available from council receptions or on request.

A range of drop-in sessions will be held during the consultation period to help the public better understand the plan's objectives.

Cup of tea and a slice of cake?

TAKE tea and cake to a new level with a fundraising party this summer.

Marie Curie Cancer Care are encouraging people across the county to take on their own Blooming Great Tea Party between June and August.

Whether it's a vintage tea party, a garden gathering or a simple cuppa with a few companions, every event held will do its bit for the charity.

Community Fundraiser Angela Bussey said: "Whether you're a dab hand at baking cakes or simply enjoying a cuppa with friends is more your cup of tea, holding a Blooming Great Tea Party is a fun way to get together and raise funds for an important cause.

"However big or small your tea party, by taking part you will be helping to raise the crucial funds that make it possible for Marie Curie Nurses to provide care for people with terminal illnesses at the time when they need it most."

BREAKFAST: The children and their dads enjoyed a morning of play

Dads and little ones have fun together at Stepping Stones

FATHERS and their children were invited to spend some time together and have a play at Stepping Stones for a special event.

The Father's Day breakfast morning took place on Saturday, June 15 between 9am and 11am. Fourteen dads and one grandad went along to enjoy a bacon sandwich with their little one and spent some time playing at the pre-school, which operates through Coupsals Primary School.

There was a chance to take on the climbing frame, mould play dough and read a story after enjoying their snack.

The event was attended by the Deputy Mayor of St Edmundsbury Cllr Tim Marks, who said that it was lovely to see so many dads joining in with the fun.

Established 20 years ago, Stepping Stones welcome children from the age of two. They open Monday to Friday from 7.45am until 5.30pm with session times of 9am until 12pm and 12-3pm. The pre-school also offers a breakfast club and holiday club for children up to the age of eight.

Week long celebration for refugees

CULTURAL diversity has been celebrated across Suffolk this week as part of a campaign to recognise the contributions of refugees.

Refugee Week 2013 is a national recognition, which this year runs from June 17 until June 23.

The courage of those who have been forced to leave their homeland has been highlighted during this week, as well as noting that the contribution that their heritage has made to our culture.

Suffolk Refugee Support, in partnership with other local refugee organisations, organised a programme of events in the Ipswich area, which invite the public to come and learn more about refugees and the journeys they have made.

Ipswich is home to refugees from all over the world who have been forced to flee to avoid death, imprisonment and torture.

Refugees will be at the heart of the events which include exhibitions, radio interviews and a film screening.

For a full list of events, visit www.suffolkrefugee.org.uk or www.refugeeweek.org.uk, or phone 01473 400785.

Party at home

CARE home celebrations will take place across the county on Friday as part of National Care Home Day.

Place Court, in Haverhill, are holding an afternoon of fun and residents have been working hard making decorations and planning activities for the day.

All are welcome from 3-5pm.

Group of friends to showcase talents

HAVERHILL'S very own singers, dancers and poets will combine their talents for a one-off show to raise money for their scheme.

Adults who attend sessions held by Suffolk charity The Befriending Scheme have been practising hard since Christmas and plan to wow the crowds who flock to see their charity talent show, taking place on June 28.

The scheme provides friendship and other social opportunities for vulnerable adults who suffer from learning difficulties or mental illness.

Volunteer Co-ordinator for Haverhill Ruth Barton explained that the charity runs regular drop-in sessions, called "hubs" in the town every Friday and two Tuesday evenings a month.

As well as providing regular support, the charity also works hard to hold activity days.

Ruth said: "We hope to raise money with 'Hub's Got Talent' to provide more of these days for the people we work with."

Ruth said the Haverhill branch of the charity received a grant of £2,400 from ONE Haverhill towards putting on these activities.

The adults who are part of the group can look forward to a party in East Town Park in July, a sports day in August and craft sessions in October.

They have already taken part in a music workshop, a pampering day and a healthy eating demonstration, provided by Tesco.

The charity have had a base in Haverhill for 20 years, and aim to continue providing their first-class level of support.

The event is taking place from 7-9.30pm at Chalkstone Community Centre, Strasbourg Square, Haverhill and tickets cost £5.

Meeting was very encouraging

IT was very encouraging to have a meeting last week to talk over the possibility of rail / enhanced transport links for the town. The Town council must be congratulated for hosting and promoting the meeting, it was very well attended with maybe the largest concentration of the people that plan for our future transport needs. Business folk and public representatives in one room for a long time, there was a mixture of great enthusiasm and pessimism (there's no money, it will never happen mentality). The negative view seemed to mainly come from the people who didn't actually live in the town and did not have to put up with the congested / dangerous A1307 on a daily basis. There was one school of thought that seemed to think that a bus link (virtual railway) with Stansted airport would be all we could hope to achieve in the short / medium term. This was tried a few years ago, with a Stansted express bus service and ended up being shelved due to lack of passengers after a short time.

The thing is there is not much call for most people, daily, to go to Stansted. What we need is a stand-alone transport service that links Haverhill – the new enterprise park – Linton-the TWI research site – the new Babraham research site – Addenbrooke's – Cambridge, a light railway or guided busway as a minimum. There is no use laying on more buses as they will just get snarled up on the congested A1307 or stuck in the early morning traffic queue into Cambridge.

As I have said before, most of the people that make the big decisions and have the power about our future do not live in the town and do not have to put up with the lack of health provision, transport and decent High Street facilities. Haverhill seems to be the garden shed of Suffolk, you know the thing out of the way at the bottom of the garden where you put the things that you don't want cluttering up your nice house or garden (i.e. 3000 houses), and the only tender loving care that you get is the occasional coat of Creosote.

The vision 2031 is now out for consultation. Please take the time to look at it, but before you do please prepare yourself: it's a bit like the one for Milton Keynes, 1983, without the shopping centre, hospital, railway, dual carriageway or concrete cows. Please sign our petition and try to make a difference.

Refugee week

REFUGEE Week 2013 is a national week of celebration taking place from Monday 17th to Sunday 23rd June.

The week celebrates the contribution that people who have been forced to leave their homelands and restart their lives have made to our rich and diverse culture.

Suffolk Refugee Support, in partnership with other local refugee organisations, has organised a full week of events in the Ipswich area, many of which are open to the public to come and learn more about refugees and the journeys they have made.

Ipswich is home to refugees from all over the world who have been forced to flee to avoid death, imprisonment and torture.

Many have witnessed the murder of their family members.

Refugees will be at the heart of the events which include exhibitions, radio interviews and a film screening.

For a full list of events, please go to www.suffolkrefugee.org.uk or www.refugeeweek.org.uk, or phone 01473 400785.

These charities/good causes were chosen because we wanted to help a wide spectrum of local people – the young, the disabled, the old and the vulnerable.

We already have people in place organising a baby show, dog show, tug of war, flower show, cake show, music, dance and sporting events. What we are still looking for is: raffle prizes, marshals to help on the day, organisers/helpers for the two event arenas on the day and help with sponsorship.

If you can help in any way to support and promote the new show please get in touch.

Exam success for Thomas, 13, despite all the odds

A HARD-working pupil has defied all odds and triumphed in his exams despite being ill.

Thomas Addison, a year 8 student who attends Barnardiston Hall School, scored the highest marks on the Common Entrance exams to earn him a place at Framlingham College.

The good news came as a surprise to the 13-year-old, who had spent the entire exam period suffering from a pain in his leg.

The dedicated pupil was sent to hospital for an x-ray before his last exam, which revealed that Thomas was suffering from an infected haematoma.

After battling through his final exam, Thomas was whisked straight off for an operation.

Despite missing an outing for his year group, which included a weekend stay in Brussels as well as trips to the

DEBRA FOX

European Space Station and to the theatre to see Wicked, Thomas, from Gazeley, is back fighting fit and determined to attend the upcoming Leavers' Ball.

Headmaster Tim Dodgson expressed his pride that all of his current year 8s have won places into their first choice senior schools.

He said: "The fantastic results that all students have achieved are testament to the hard work and dedication that they have put in, not only in the run-up to Common Entrance exams but throughout the course."

"In addition to studying, the students have climbed Ben Nevis, played competitive sports throughout the year and several are joining the cast of our school production at the end of the school year."

Edward Parker, also 13, is another pupil who has flown to the top achieving high marks in the same exams and earning a place at Rugby School.

The school have also decided to award him with their English Prize, which is being presented to him on Saturday at Barnardiston.

Mr Dodgson said: "I am absolutely delighted for Thomas and Edward who fully deserve the results they have achieved and I wish every member of the year group all the very best for the future."

Fancy a taste of the Wild West?

A TASTE of the Wild Wild West is coming to Coupsals School as they host their annual summer fayre.

Cowboys and cowgirls are being asked to mosey down to the fayre to take part in some gunslinging, rip-roaring fun.

Activities will include face painting, bouncy castles and a wild west train ride.

Other themed activities like archery and pistol shooting, a cowboys versus indians tug of war and make your own sheriff badges and native american necklaces are also lined up. Mums and dads can enjoy a barbecue and raffle – and dare to come in fancy dress.

The fayre takes place on Sunday from 2-4pm at the school, on Chalkestone Way.

Man, 76, died after falling in freezing weather

DEBRA FOX

A PENSIONER who collapsed feet from his front door died of hypothermia, an inquest heard.

Edward Smith, 76, of Duddery Court, Haverhill, was still alive when paramedics reached him shortly after 3.30am on March 24.

Doctors were unable to save the 76-year-old, who had been lying outside in temperatures of minus four degrees. An inch of snow was also covering the ground.

The inquest, which was held yesterday at Bury St Edmunds heard how Mr Smith, a retired factory worker, died as a result of hypothermia.

Further tests showed that the pensioner, who was described as a loner and had a history of alcohol use, had been drinking on the night before he collapsed.

Suffolk Coroner Dr Peter Dean said that Mr Smith had been helped home on a number of previous occasions after he had been drinking.

Neighbour Germain Onley told he had earlier offered to help the pensioner home when he saw him leaning against a wall, but he refused.

A police investigation established that there were no suspicious circumstances and Mr Smith was still in possession of his wallet and keys when he was found.

The post mortem examination showed that Mr Smith's death was due to hypothermia with an underlying cause of heart disease.

Dr Dean recorded a narrative verdict, that death was due to hypothermia, natural disease and alcohol consumption.

Showcase your skills on the pitch

BUDDING footballers are getting the chance to show a top club what they're made of.

The Chelsea FC Foundation are holding an advanced trial and training day at Samuel Ward Academy on June 26.

Open to children who are currently in Years 2, 3 or 4, the sessions will involve practicing technical skills as well as taking part in small-sided games.

The hours of playing in the garden could pay off as the most impressive participants will be invited to attend the Chelsea FC Foundation Advanced Training Centre in September.

During last season, many players from the Foundation's centres got the chance to play against professional clubs including Ipswich Town FC and Colchester United.

Players can also be recommended for festivals or training with the Chelsea Academy.

If you are interested in registering your child then they must be a current Year 2, 3 or 4 pupil.

Quiz raises £500 for cancer charity

DEBRA FOX

A CANCER survivor has told of his surprise after a quiz fund-raised £500.

Mick Pilling, 60, of Bishops Close, Haverhill, is taking on Macmillan's London to Paris cycle in July for the second time.

He decided to give his total a boost by holding a charity quiz night, which was held at Costa Coffee on Haverhill High Street on June 5.

The 60-year-old teamed up with friend and co-rider Matt Davis, of Huntstanton, to host the evening and made £500.

Mick, who has so far raised £6,000 for Macmillan, said: "Everyone who turned up had a brilliant time and all in all it was an outstanding night."

The 60-year-old, who was given the all-clear from head and neck cancer in 2010, has supported the charity since 1998.

Between 1998 and 2005 Mick lost his mum Renata, dad John and twin brother Alan to the disease.

He has previously cycled the 500km from London to Paris once before, as well as climbing Ben Nevis in 2010.

As well as taking part in the

'OUTSTANDING NIGHT': The charity quiz raised £500

quiz at Costa, guests were invited to try their luck in a raffle.

Mick said: "We ended up with about 30 raffle prizes which were all donated."

"Every shop I went to donated something of some sort."

Vouchers from Tesco, Sainsbury's and Waitrose were up for grabs as well as certificates for pampering at local hair and beauty parlours.

Prizes from photo galleries, the Tavern at Birdbrook and Boots were also given to Mick and Matt to auction off.

The 60-year-old said: "We made some good money on the night and it's all for a good cause."

"I want to thank Ben and Tom from Costa for allowing us to use their facilities and having the staff free on the night."

The duo will set off from London on July 3, and Mick plans to video as much of the trip as he can as well as snapping away to catalogue the journey.

To donate to Mick and Matt visit www.justgiving.com/mick-pilling3 and www.justgiving.com/mattdavis12p.

All dressed up to see the year out in style

STRIKE A POSE: The Castle Manor Year 11s take time out from partying to pose for the photographer

STUDENTS from Castle Manor saw the year out in style and partied the night away at their prom.

The event, held on May 24 at Chilford Hall, was a true display of the pupils' hard work.

They raised more than £1,000 towards their celebration, which had a black, white and gold theme.

The students pulled out all the stops, arriving at the venue in an array of sports cars, campervans and power motors.

Ben Sparrow took home the Prom King Crown, accompanied by Emilia Edwards as his Queen.

Awards for the best dancer, best dressed and best hair were also given out.

The Year 11 students had also organised a buffet dinner, sweetie table and called on the help of Sixth Form Students to provide a photo booth to capture the memories and the dance floor was packed out until the end.

'The Quiet Ones' come out on top

YOUNG entrepreneurs competed in an Anglian Ruskin University business talent contest, putting their skills to the test.

Teams from Haverhill's Castle Manor Academy, West Herts College in Watford, Longsands Academy in St Neots, and two from Ernulf Academy in St Neots, faced a timetable of interviews and presentations and were judged by a panel of experts on their ability to run a business.

And it was the Year 12 students from Longsands called 'The Quiet Ones' who claimed the trophy on Monday evening, along with a cash prize of £1,000 and £250 for charity, which they will donate to Play Kenya.

Alyce Mulheron, Jack Turner, Kirsty Middleton, Megan Day and Zoe Jephtha, knocked Ernulf into second and Castle Manor into third following the challenge at ARU's East Road campus, which saw candidates pitch their ideas for an ice cream business.

Meanwhile, an individual 'outstanding talent' award was presented to Sebastian Hammond of Castle Manor Academy.

Dr Trevor Bolton, pro-vice chancellor and dean of Lord Ashcroft International Business School, was part of the judging panel.

He said: "It was a difficult decision for the judges, but The Quiet Ones had a particularly compelling recommendation, backed up with real quotes from suppliers for design and website development."

"They used the example of a similar case study – an entrepreneur that they had learned about in their business studies."

Rick Carroll, headteacher at Longsands, said: "Our students outlined how hard and demanding the day was but said that it was also rewarding and enjoyable."

"The students really appreciated the variety of tasks that they were presented with and, importantly, the honest and clear feedback that was provided at each and every stage by the wide variety of judges involved."

"At Longsands, we are excited by the continued partnership work with Anglia Ruskin University and the opportunities that our students are able to participate in. It was great to see the students enjoy their moment of success."

CLIFFHANGER: Neil and his bride Kate, who chose a Norfolk holiday park for their wedding celebrations

A do with a view for happy couple

DEBRA FOX

A HOLIDAY park was the go-to destination for a loved-up couple to tie the knot.

Kate Parnell, 25, and husband Neil Missen, 26, both of Haverhill, celebrated their nuptials on Saturday with a cliff top party.

The reception was held at Woodhill Park, East Runton, Norfolk, a special place for the pair.

Kate, who stole the show in a strapless, floor length gown, said the Norfolk park was top of the list when it came to deciding on a location.

The bride said: "We just love visiting north-Norfolk and have holidayed at Woodhill every year for eight years so it holds a very special place in our hearts."

"We're not a conventional couple so wanted to do something a bit different for our wedding reception and, with Neil proposing at Woodhill, thought it would be romantic, as well as unusual to hold our reception there."

At first, the couple thought their dreams may be dashed

ROMANTIC: Newly-weds Kate and Neil

because of health and safety regulations, but the park were so pleased with the request they allowed the party to take place.

Kate and Neil got married at Sheringham Methodist Church before holding the reception in the marquee in the grounds at the front of the park alongside.

Thirty camping pitches were also put up for guests.

Nigel Carr, Woodhill Park Manager, said: "Many visitors return to Woodhill year after year but this was the first time that we've been approached about holding a wedding reception here.

"We were surprised initially but have tried to make sure that Kate and Neil's day is as memorable as possible and are absolutely delighted that they have chosen to make Woodhill part of their special day."

And a honeymoon destination for the newly-weds?

Yep, you guessed it.

Playgroup gets a new leader

A PLAYGROUP has welcomed some new faces.

Angie Barker has taken on the position of manager and Fiona Chambers has started as an assistant at Haverhill Methodist Church Playgroup.

The pair have only been in their roles a couple of weeks but already plans are in place to raise awareness for the well established pre-school as well as getting in touch with prospective parents and children.

New manager Angie said: "It's an exciting challenge and it's nice to join an established, well run pre-school in the local community."

The current playgroup was registered 19 years ago but is thought to have been running for as long as 60 years.

A new website is also currently being set up for the playgroup. Haverhill Methodist Church Playgroup is open from 8.45am until 11.45am Monday to Friday and costs £6 per session.

For more information, search for them on Facebook or call the nursery on 07585540373.

A Taylor-made career

Diagnosed with autism, Vinnie French's son Taylor seemed closed off to the world. But when music therapy began to have an amazing effect, Vinnie made a life-changing decision – to become a music therapist himself

TAYLOR French is a handsome young chap. With his mop of dark hair and beautiful blue-green eyes, the 5-year-old – who loves nothing more than bashing on his drum kit – looks every inch the normal schoolboy.

But Taylor is autistic. He rarely speaks, struggles to make eye contact, and is happiest when he doesn't have to communicate with anyone else.

Yet with the help of music therapy, Taylor is gradually coming out of his shell. And his dad, Vinnie, has been so inspired by the change in his son that he's turned his back on a retail career and, aged 34, is now a student again. The aim? To become a music therapist, and to help children like Taylor realise their full potential.

"For me it's a no-brainer," says Vinnie, who lives in Trumpington, Cambridge. "I've always loved music; I've played guitar since I was 11, but I never thought I'd do anything professional with it, it was only ever a hobby. But I can honestly say I would not be at college now had it not been for Taylor. He's my one inspiration."

Taylor was born in July 2007, just over a year after his sister Jessica, "and to begin with, everything was great," says Vinnie. "Leigh and I were a young married couple, we'd got a boy and a girl, and everything seemed to be going okay with the development of both the kids."

"But by the time Taylor was a year-and-a-half old, it became apparent that he wasn't developing socially, as Jessica had. We had a clear comparison in front of us because they were so similar in age."

The main issue was that he didn't respond to his name: "You could even shout 'Taylor! Taylor! Taylor!' and he wouldn't turn around," recalls Vinnie. "And we weren't getting any words from him. None at all."

"He was also quite repetitive with things; when he was sitting on my lap, he would often beat out a rhythm on my chest. I just thought 'oh, he's going to be musical', like me. But as time progressed it was clear that something was wrong."

Vinnie had also noticed that Taylor would often hold his hands over his ears and, suspecting that he had either a hearing problem or glue ear, took him to the doctor. It wasn't a success.

"He's so sensitive about his ears, even now, that he wouldn't let the doctor near him. So the doctor said look, I'll give him a course of penicillin, then at least if he has got a glue ear it'll clear it. But it didn't do anything."

"So from then on, I began to read up 'my 18-month-old is not responding' – and I started to think about autism."

Piece by piece, it began to fall into place: Vinnie read that three factors – a lack of interaction, eye contact and communication – were key indicators of the condition. Taylor struggled with all three.

But it was to take Vinnie 18 months to have Taylor officially diagnosed, an experience he describes as "really long, and really soul-destroying."

He began by contacting the health visitor: "She was here for 10 minutes, then said 'no, he's not autistic,' and left. She said he'd interacted with her – because he'd looked at her when she came in – and because he'd 'initiated communication through gestures'. But I knew in my heart of hearts that something was not right."

Taylor then saw a variety of health professionals, from doctors to ear specialists to speech therapists. It was a stressful time for the whole family, as Taylor hated visiting the medics. "He'd panic and have an episode," says Vinnie. "He would just have a total meltdown tantrum, just flip out screaming, and throw himself to the floor."

"Everybody I saw was wonderfully friendly, and they wanted to help, but nobody offered a diagnosis. Taylor still had a problem, and I'd got nowhere, apart from being severely stressed, and severely depressed. It was just horrific."

By now, Taylor was due to start pre-school. But this threw up another problem: his total lack of danger awareness. "There's no verbal interaction," explains Vinnie. "So if he's running into a road and you say 'Taylor, stop!', he won't understand, and he'll just keep going."

"It's terrible. You can't go anywhere, you can't take him round people's homes because he's a very physical boy. He might want to run around and jump, and if they have their back door open, Taylor will run off. So I had some severe worries about him going to nursery."

"Also he was still in nappies, so he needed his hygiene managed for him. He needed to have somebody with him one to one."

Fortunately, local primary school Fawcett were, he says, "absolutely brilliant", and gave Taylor full-time help for the 15 hours a week he was there. But starting reception meant he'd need help all day, every day – and there was no budget for that.

Six months later, Taylor was finally diagnosed as being on the autistic spectrum by the Child Development Centre (CDC) at Addenbrooke's. For

Vinnie, it was a huge relief: "I thought my job was done, but I was severely wrong. I'd barely started."

Meanwhile, having read about the benefits of music therapy, Vinnie arranged for Taylor to have 10 months of weekly sessions at the CDC, "and we had an amazing music therapist; she was brilliant, literally fantastic," says Vinnie.

"It started with him being really erratic, running around and just playing the drums and nothing else. By the end of it we had him interacting with us. It basically did everything I wanted it to do – increased his eye contact, increased his communication, and massively increased his interaction."

"I even heard his first words at music therapy. He was saying 'one two three four', and 'ready steady go'. It was absolutely brilliant, and he loved it. And I wanted to carry that on."

But when Vinnie tried to get a full statement of special needs for Taylor, which would include music therapy, he was in for a huge disappointment.

"To prepare a statement you have to focus on the negatives; everything that your child can't do. As a parent, it's the most soul-destroying thing to ever sit and do, to read reports from every professional involved of everything that's not right. Taylor was now 4, and I was reading reports saying that his communication skills were like an 18-month-old. It was so hard."

The reports were submitted to a panel, "but they came back and said Taylor could only have 25 hours of teaching assistance – I'd asked for 32-and-a-half – and no music therapy."

"So for seven-and-a-half-hours Taylor's by himself. What if he had toileting needs? Does he walk around dirty? Who's going to be watching him if he tries to jump the fence, like he does at home? It was just ridiculous. My wife felt awful, I did as well. I don't think I've ever been so stressed in my life."

Vinnie appealed twice with no luck; it was only when he threatened to take the decision to court that Taylor was given a full statement. "I was elated, but at the same time it was disappointing that it took me to have to threaten a tribunal," says Vinnie. "I'm very vocal and very confident; I don't mind challenging, and I will. But what if there's a parent that isn't like that? They might just have to put up with that kind of decision – and that child is missing out. It still makes me really angry."

While all this was going on, Vinnie made a life-changing decision – to go back into education and train to become a music therapist. "It was something I could clearly do," he says. "To move into a career where I can play my guitar, which is awesome, and be in a position to learn more about these conditions and help people, then why not? It's a win-win."

He's currently completing the second year of a music diploma at Cambridge Regional College, then in September he'll begin a music degree at Anglia Ruskin University, followed by a two-year masters that will lead to his new working life.

"It'll take five years, but I'm absolutely determined," says Vinnie. "I've got another 30-odd years of work left to do, so I might as well do it in something that's worthwhile. And I'm fully committed to achieving it."

Finally armed with a full statement, Vinnie has now been able to get Taylor into a special school – Castle School in Cambridge: "It's been fantastic," he says. "They have eight children in a class, it's so set for his needs, and they do the music therapy there as well."

"We've totally noticed a difference. It's been a long road, but we've done it now, and we're in a better place."

There's now a third addition to the French family; little Lillie, who's 2. And despite Taylor's issues, the children are, says Vinnie, a happy bunch. "The girls don't know any different, and obviously there's times when things can be frustrating for them – if they're playing with something and Taylor takes it – but all in all they're absolutely brilliant. I do feel bad: some autistic children don't like physical contact, and I know of parents with autistic kids who can't hug their child. But Taylor always wants a cuddle. He'll want me to pick him up, he'll cuddle Lillie – he's a very loving boy."

"He's absolutely fine: there's nothing wrong with him, he just autistic – he just needs to be in a safe environment, and to be understood."

"I remember I was at a shop once," he adds with a smile, "and somebody had one of those charity boxes, and said 'do you want to give some money to help cure autism?' And I said 'no, I don't. That would imply that there's something wrong with my son'. There's nothing wrong with my son, he just looks at the world differently."

For now, Vinnie is taking each day as it comes. "I don't know what the future is going to bring, if Taylor will be self-sufficient or if he'll live with us for the rest of our lives," he says. "There's always that concern, and I'm sure there'll be battles in the future. But for the moment we're content with how things are. And I'll always be there for him."

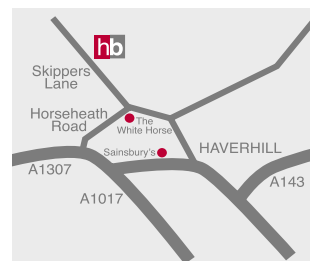

Spot the difference.

BIG DAY FOR THE TOWN: But what affect has the Olympics really had locally?

London's lasting legacy is on the agenda at today's meeting

THE anticipation and excitement in the air as the Olympic Torch toured through Haverhill was felt by thousands. And now, almost one year on, the question to be debated at a meeting in Haverhill today is: has that day had a lasting affect on the town?

Adam Baker, Most Active County Project Manager, is due to speak at today's thebestof Haverhill business meeting.

He will discuss the legacy from the London 2012 Games for sport, tourism, businesses and the economy at a national and county level.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestof Haverhill, said she was eager for the guest speaker's opinion on whether or not the investment of between £9.3billion and £24 billion was worth it.

She said: "I am interested to hear from Adam whether the Games have had an impact on levels of participation in sport in Suffolk and whether the expected increase in tourism as a result of hosting the Games has occurred."

To find out more about thebestofhaverhill visit www.thebestof.co.uk/haverhill.

Blois Meadow, Steeple Bumpstead, the nursery serves Haverhill and the surrounding villages and cares for 45 children from young babies to pre-schoolers.

In an unannounced inspection on May 21, Ofsted graded the nursery "outstanding" in every respect. They were especially impressed by the nursery's care of babies, who "quickly develop a secure sense of belonging". The nursery has a bright, airy baby room and a separate sleep room: qualified staff have specialist training in the care of young babies.

Children flourish at the nursery, according to Ofsted, because their learning is effectively nurtured by "enthusiastic and knowledgeable staff". They "develop exceptional competencies in communication and language, which prepare them extremely well for when they move on to school".

"It's such a friendly, homely environment. It feels as though I am leaving my children with friends and family not a business," says local GP Dr Emma Fryer.

And Blois Meadow is a family business. It is owned and managed by Alison Midgley, a qualified teacher, and her husband Ross, who have more than ten years' experience of managing quality nurseries.

They aim to make the nursery as affordable as possible. "As parents ourselves, we understand the difficulty in finding high quality care at a reasonable cost. Our fees are guaranteed not to rise for the whole of this year and we have special terms for parents transferring from other nurseries," says Ross Midgley.

Blois Meadow is also offering a special summer deal to celebrate its outstanding Ofsted grade. For new children joining before August 31, any sessions booked and paid for in the first four weeks will be repeated free of charge in the next four weeks.

"Parents hold the nursery in the highest regard", according to Ofsted. Dr Fryer agrees. "The staff are great - very friendly and helpful. And Alison is superb - she is creating the ideal nursery environment at Blois Meadow," she says.

Coupals Primary School

Coupals pupils 'achieve'

ADVERTISING FEATURE

TUCKED away in Chalkstone Way Haverhill, is a school with a real difference, a unique blend of learning and opportunity underpinned by good quality teaching.

With a mission of 'Learning with Enjoyment', Coupals School has worked hard to earn its reputation as a school with a true community and family spirit.

Recognised by Ofsted, who wrote: "Pupils enjoy school because they are taught well and lessons are interesting and fun. As a result of a well-planned curriculum and well-targeted initiatives to raise attainment, all pupils achieve well."

Entering Coupals you are immediately aware of the friendly staff and warm atmosphere. Meeting with the head-teacher Charles Hardingham is no ordinary experience either. With an office set into a mural of 'Middle Earth' (the Hobbit) you are taken in person around the bright and stimulating environment to see the school in action.

During the visit they may see the 30-station Computer suite, Food Technology room and Enrichment room which is home to both the music facilities and reference library. On leaving the building visitors can explore the extensive grounds, outside teaching area and hens that provide eggs for the community. A busy cottage garden run by children and volunteers is often flourishing with produce.

Back into the school you will see children making the most of the specialist opportunities offered such as; music and games or just sitting chatting to the school librarian. The school is proud to offer the theatre school, Stage Coach which provides classes in music, dance and drama.

With an emphasis on reading and personal achievement you can see why Coupals is the popular choice for many Haverhill families. The school doesn't stand still either as an extensive building refurbishment programme is underway this summer to improve the washroom and toilet facilities for both adults and children.

Take a little time and see for yourself a school which has most definitely kept its eye on both traditional values and ensuring a dynamic 21st Century education.

Lilypads Day Nursery & Pre-School

Lilypads celebrates

ADVERTISING FEATURE

AS Lilypads Day Nursery in Haverhill prepares to celebrate its first birthday this summer, the team look back on what has been an amazing first year.

Hayley Peacock and Dawn Edwards took over the nursery in August 2012 and in a few short months achieved a "Good" Ofsted grading in all areas, with some features classed as "Outstanding".

Co-owner Hayley explained that the nursery has been completely transformed inside and out, with new astro turf laid outside for safety and new equipment throughout.

She said: "It's gone very quickly but we have made dramatic changes since taking over and we are really flexible in helping parents out

"We can help out if they are on different shift patterns and they don't have to do set hours.

CELEBRATING: Lilypads Day Nursery is celebrating its first year on August 17.

"We like to help people out"

The nursery also has separate rooms for babies and a pre-school room for young children.

Lilypads also offers 15 hours of free child care a week for children aged two and above.

Certain criteria must be met for two and three year olds to be eligible for this.

In honour of the one-year celebration, the nursery is holding a family fun day on August 17, from 10am until 2pm which will have activities for everyone to enjoy.

Children can play on an on-site bouncy castle, donkey rides and even take part in some cake making and visit pets corner.

There will also be a DJ and a barbecue for the adults at an event where everyone is invited to come along.

Hayley said: "We have a fantastic and dedicated team here and we're looking forward to celebrating being open for a year."

Education Matters 2013

Town is bursting with great facilities

YOU can rest easy when you know your child is in a school that ticks all the boxes – not just the boxes you're told it should tick, but it also hits the mark on every possible scenario you've brought to mind.

Whether you're looking for a day nursery that's flexible with ever-changing shift patterns or a pre-school that prepares your little one for life in the classroom, you can rest assured that education establishments across Haverhill have everything to offer.

It's just as difficult to wave your son or daughter off to secondary school as it is to usher them into their first pre-school session – but these moments are made that little bit easier if you totally trust the staff, curriculum and ethos of the school.

The town is bursting with nurseries, child minders, pre-schools, primaries and high schools so whatever your requirements, something will fit the bill.

When it comes to getting names on lists, remember to review your own personal criteria before committing to that choice.

It will all be worth it when your child arrives home from their first day, wherever that may be, with a big smile.

HAVING FUN: The learning experience in Haverhill is full of positive options.

BARNARDISTON HALL
PREPARATORY SCHOOL

Barnadiston Hall combines best of old and new practice

ADVERTISING FEATURE

VISITING Barnardiston Hall for the first time is sometimes a surprise for parents when they find out that, as well as being an excellent school for girls and boys up to the age of 13 years, it also has a Nursery (The Lodge) and Early Years' Department graded "Outstanding" by Ofsted in all of its recent inspections.

Open from 7.30am-7pm each day and offering breakfast, lunch and supper for parents who require extended care, Barnardiston blends the very best of traditional values such as manners, kindness and respect for others with the most up-to-date teaching practice where we follow the seven areas of learning and more!

All staff are well-qualified and have many years' experience working with young children and so you can be sure that, as well as having fun, your child will be learning through play. Early numeracy and literacy are taught in a fun way and these are supplemented by music and movement and French which are taught by specialist teachers.

Older children are also introduced to swimming at the local pool. You can be certain that your child is getting the very best start which will ensure they are completely ready for the transition to school, whether that be at Barnardiston Hall or to one of the many excellent schools in the area.

Being a part of a larger school means there are facilities not normally associated with nurseries such as large areas for sport, a full-size bouncy castle to play on, fields to run in and even a pony to visit! There are also separate areas for each age-group. Those aged 18 months to three years are in The Lodge while 3-4 year-olds and 4-5 year-olds have their own 'classrooms' and wear a traditional school uniform – something which parents say they find very convenient when getting ready in the mornings!

Barnardiston Hall offers a unique experience and is certainly worth a visit. To make an appointment, just give Mrs Lesley Gundersen a call on (01440) 786316. You will be made very welcome and you, too, may be surprised to see what a great facility is available so close to home!

Early numeracy and literacy are combined with learning French through games and songs and our own transport fleet provides plenty of opportunities to go further afield.

SAMUEL WARD is one of the highest performing schools in Suffolk, with results far above the national average in some of the most demanding subjects for six key reasons:

- The Academy believes that pupils thrive best when they are in small groups. That is why tutor groups have a maximum of 15 pupils, Year 7 and 8 are nurtured in their own purpose designed building and all pupils are part of a House system.

- Pupils make rapid progress in Year 7 and 8 because of tailored teaching approaches and most reach national Year 9 standards one year early giving them more time on GCSE.

- All pupils from Year 7 are taught leadership skills leading to a range of accredited awards including work in primary schools and leadership of learning at Samuel Ward.

- Hobbies, interests and competitive sports are a key part of a pupil's wider development and that is why enrichment is compulsory for Years 7, 8 and 9 for three nights per week. Pupils select from nearly 60 activities and grow in confidence and skills.
- With strong links with European countries and International status all our pupils have the opportunity to broaden their experience preparing them for sixth form and university.

- Pupils are taught strong moral values through a small meeting with their Learning Coach every morning. This not only gives them a sense of place but engenders respect, responsibility and resilience.

For these reasons Samuel Ward gained "Outstanding" in every category in its recent Ofsted in October 2012, is an accredited sponsor and the headteacher is a National Leader of Education.

SAMUEL WARD: Academy believes that pupils thrive best in small groups.

Sixties sounds

SWISH those skirts and pile on the red lippy, Cambridge Arts Theatre is kick-starting the new Dreamboats and Petticoats tour.

The show premiered in 2009 and is a bit of a West End regular, but reviews are generally tepid at best. But then again they do tend to come from straitlaced theatre critics annoyed at having to delve into the cheesy world of musical theatre. So, if you love a bit of cheese, the likelihood is you'll be kicking up your heels madly in love with it.

The jukebox musical is based on the rock 'n' roll compilation album of the same name (yes, really – and don't forget the many spin-offs), and is the work of writers Laurence Marks and Maurice Gran, the guys behind Goodnight Sweetheart and Birds of a Feather on TV.

Set in 1961, it tracks the summer loves and misunderstandings of a talented group of high school students as they compete in a national songwriting competition.

Musicians Norman and Bobby are rivals from the off, scrapping over girls and musical leads but I have a sneaking feeling things might work out for the best . . .

I warned you it was a tad sugary, but the music makes up for that. It features classic tracks from the likes of Roy Orbison, The Shadows, Eddie Cochran and Billy Fury, plus you can sing along to Let's Dance, Shaking All Over, Bobby's Girl, Little Town Flirt, Only Sixteen, Runaround Sue, Let It Be Me, Great Pretender, C'mon Everybody and, of course, Let's Twist Again.

Star of the 1960s Mark Wynter will be reprising his role and singing Venus in Blue Jeans, Go Away Little Girl and It's Almost Tomorrow, but, more than anything, we're looking forward to seeing the rockabilly dresses – swoon.

The show runs until Saturday at 7.45pm. Tickets are £15 – £35 from (01223) 503333 or cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk.

Flamenco legacy

EXPLOSIVE Flamenco dancer Jairo Barrull, who is unmatched in his rapid footwork, presents his new show Barrull, A Flamenco Legacy at the Mumford Theatre, Cambridge, tomorrow (Friday).

It is a show which reflects Jairo's unique gypsy flamenco upbringing and his very unique personal style of footwork – a style that was pioneered by his father Ramón Barrull at the end of the 70s and later adopted and extended by Jairo into his own style, a dance style that is followed by many young contemporary flamenco dancers today.

Jairo, an internationally successful gypsy flamenco dancer from Seville, Spain, has been performing since he was seven. His family are the well-known Amaya's - Los Negros de Ronda, also known as the Diego Del Gastor family, whose artistic legacy stems back to the 19th century.

During his artistic career Jairo has performed with notable flamenco artists such as 'El Chocolate', José de la Tomasa, Concha Vargas, Juana Amaya, Angelita Vargas, Farruquito, Carmen Cortes, Antonio El Pipa and Gerardo Núñez, and has performed in prestigious theatres all over the world including the Dansens Hus, Stockholm, the Theatre Avenida, Argentina, the Orchestre National de Lyon Auditorium as well as a performance at the Vatican for the Pope John Paul II when has was just 13.

He has also performed at the Alte Oper of Frankfurt with German juggler Francis Brunn in 'Incognito' and at the Berliner Philharmonie in 2003, where the German press repeatedly declared him 'The Hope of Dance'.

To tell the story of his artistic heritage that has evolved over seven generations by way of gypsy flamenco dance forms, Jairo will be joined by first-class gypsy musicians from Andalucía including flamenco singers David El Galli, Manuel de la Malena and flamenco guitarist Eugenio Iglesias.

film of the week

World War Z (15, 116 mins)
SOME of Hollywood's most glittering triumphs have been snatched from the slaving jaws of defeat.

Gone With The Wind was shot by three different directors and suffered numerous delays, yet the sweeping 1939 romance reigned supreme at the Oscars with eight statuette winners including Best Picture and Best Director. Joseph L Mankiewicz's 1963 epic Cleopatra was beset with similar problems, almost bankrupting studio Twentieth Century Fox when the budget ballooned from $2 million to $44 million. Lead stars Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton began a very public affair, which incurred the moral indignation of audiences, yet the dazzling historical drama still garnered four Oscars.

Now comes Brad Pitt's post-apocalyptic zombie action horror, which has been plagued by rumours of on-set traumas and was delayed by six months to allow filmmakers to completely rewrite and reshoot the final showdown. If poisonous word of mouth could slay a picture before it has even screened, World War Z would be as lifeless as the hordes of computer-generated undead that cram every frame of Marc Forster's ill-fated film. From this mire though, Forster and three screenwriters have bolted together a compelling survival thriller that is not the catastrophe the gossip-mongers predicted – but also not as slick and suspenseful as cast and crew would have wished.

Gerry Lane (Pitt) is a retired United Nations investigator, who devotes his time to his wife Karin (Mireille Enos) and daughters Constance (Sterling Jerins) and Rachel (Abigail Hargrove). During a drive through Philadelphia, the Lanes witness the spread of a disease which transforms men, women and children into merciless predators with a single bite.

Gerry's old boss at the UN, Thierry Umutoni (Fana Mokoena), guarantees Karin, Constance and Rachel passage on an aircraft carrier if Gerry will agree to travel behind enemy lines to discover the source of the outbreak. The search moves from a military base in South Korea to Jerusalem and finally to a World Health Organisation compound in Wales where Gerry and an Israeli soldier (Daniella Kertesz) join four doctors (Peter Capaldi, Pierfrancesco Favino, Ruth Negga, Moritz Bleibtreu) in the frantic race against time for a cure.

World War Z boasts a cracking opening 60 minutes, directed at breakneck speed by Forster, who captures the pandemonium as the infected swarm like rabid animals.

The dramatic momentum slows noticeably in the rewritten final act that feels out of kilter with the rest of the film but does at least permit close-ups of the infected.

Blast away the blackspot

AS if aphids, vine weevil and lily beetle aren't trouble enough for us all at this time of year, when your roses show signs of blackspot you may wonder if it's time to throw in the towel.

While blackspot used to be a disease confined to the south of England, now it's all over the UK, causing defoliation and stunted growth to roses nationwide.

This unsightly fungal disease is hard to eradicate as it lurks over winter on fallen leaves and diseased stems, spreading on to healthy new leaves as spring returns.

There are many blackspot sprays on the market, claiming to provide a protective barrier which kills fungal spores on the leaves as they germinate.

A recent trial by Which? Gardening, the Consumers' Association magazine, put eight such products to the test between April and October last year.

The products were tested on 'Silver Jubilee' roses as they are a modern variety, more resistant to blackspot than older varieties and more typical of the roses you might buy today. The roses were planted at a site known to carry the blackspot fungus and by June blackspot had appeared on the plants, at which point treatment was started, following the instructions supplied, while a number of bushes were left untreated.

The trial found that any chemical-based product was better than nothing and that they all slowed the progress of the disease to a similar degree.

While none of the products completely stopped the disease, testers recommend Bayer Garden Systhane Fungus Fighter Concentrate (£5.99 for 300ml, makes 15 litres); Scotts Fungus Clear Ultra (£6.99 for 225ml, makes 15 litres); and Bayer Garden Multirose 2 Ready-to-use (£5.75 for 1 litre).

However, trials found that the organic product which was tested, Vitax Organic 2-in-1 Pest and Disease Control ready-to-use spray, comprising a blend of sesame oil and fish oils, didn't make any difference to the roses and blackspot took hold of them in the same way as the untreated plants.

You will have to be persistent with spraying to keep the barrier on the leaves in place, and spray early, as the leaf buds burst if the blackspot was present the previous year.

If you don't want to go down the chemical route, there are other ways of controlling blackspot.

Pick off affected leaves and burn fallen leaves, and give plants a high potash feed, as potash deficiency may make blackspot worse.

Buy disease-resistant varieties such as the gallicas and albas and modern shrub roses like the rugosas. Good resistance to disease is also found among newer varieties of English and Modern bush roses. Good choices include Rosa gallica 'Versicolor', with its semi-double, pink flowers striped crimson, Rosa alba 'Konigin von Danemark', which produces glowing pink blooms, and the wonderfully fragrant English rose 'Gertrude Jekyll', which bears beautiful rich pink flowers.

If you keep your plants well fed and in the right place – preferably in a sunny spot with good drainage – they'll be less susceptible to disease. Remember, roses are hungry feeders so you would do well to apply a thick mulch of well-rotted organic matter and ensure good air circulation.

When watering, water the soil, not the leaves, and prune in spring to remove infected stems.

■ The full report is in the June issue of Which? Gardening. Sign up to Which? for a one-month trial for £1, with access to all its product reviews, test scores and Best Buy or Don't Buy ratings. For more information, visit www.which.co.uk/signup

Local letting agency stands up for standards

HAVERHILL property management agency CXG Property Services is the latest company to join the NALS nationwide letting scheme – set up to provide a much needed means of enabling landlords and tenants to avoid the pitfalls of dealing with “cow-boy” letting agents.

With immediate effect, CXG Property Services is now a fully licensed operator under the scheme, and will bear the NALS logo.

NALS (the National Approved Letting Scheme) ensures that agents comply with defined service standards, and has in place a customer complaints procedure offering independent redress through an ombudsman scheme, Professional Indemnity Insurance, Client Money Protection cover and access to Tenancy Deposit Protection.

The scheme is supported by some of the most powerful voices in the property industry and open to any firm operating in the lettings sector who meets NALS’ strict criteria.

NALS Chief Executive Isobel Thomson commented: “NALS service standards are the consumer’s benchmark against which to judge the performance of letting and management agents operating in the private rented sector and we are delighted to welcome CXG Property Services into the scheme. Agents such as CXG are in the vanguard of a drive to establish uniform service standards in the industry.”

Daniel Pilley Director at CXG added: “We see being a NALS licensed firm as an excellent opportunity to increase business within our letting and management department.

“This visible assurance provided by the NALS logo gives prospective landlords and tenants the confidence of knowing the service they can expect from dealing with us.”

Two Counties Show ready for June 30

WITH just a couple of weeks to go things are hotting up for the Two Counties Motor Show, which is taking place at Rowley Mile in Newmarket on Sunday, June 30.

Among those attending the event is the Vindis Group, which will be bringing a wealth of vehicles from all of its manufacturer brands and every one of its dealerships from Cambridge and Bury St Edmunds.

The Vindis Group has booked the biggest-ever site at the event, taking over an entire area of the Hyperion Lawn. On the stands will be Bentley, Audi, Volkswagen, Volkswagen Commercial Vehicles and Skoda Centres, as well as, Vindis Skoda Bury St Edmunds and Vindis Van Centre St Ives. The Vindis Group team will be on hand to show you around the extensive range of models showcasing the best in advanced engineering.

Jamie Vindis, managing director at Vindis Group, said: "It is not our intention to be the biggest motor group in the UK but to be the most recognised for our commitment to exceeding both business objectives and customer expectations."

"We look forward to welcoming visitors of the Two Counties

CLASS: Bentley will have a range of vehicles on the Vindis stand.

Motor Show and are sure you will be impressed with the extensive range of vehicles we will have on display."

For further information visit www.vindisgroup.com.

Also at Two Counties this year is Cambridge Valet Centre, making its first appearance at the event.

"We're taking an exhibition leather car seat which will demonstrate our new capabilities with leather repair and customising," says Cambridge Valet Centre (CVC) owner Simon Walters. "We'll also be taking a bonnet from a high-performance car for the stand, showing a 50-50 combination for paint correction which shows what we can achieve with our performance car refinishing skills and on the day we'll be doing some live demonstrations showing how you can remove scratches that would often be painted but can in fact be taken out and repaired using machine polishing techniques."

Check the stand to see if CVC's mobile van is on display. There will also be special discount cards the firm's services.

Go to www.cambridgevaletcentre.com for further details.

360bhp AMG version of the A-Class due

THE new A 45 AMG is nearly here.

As well as aiming to set new dynamic benchmarks, the A 45 AMG marks many firsts - it's the first production car to achieve 181bhp per litre, the first AMG with fewer than six cylinders, the first compact AMG and the first all-wheel drive A-Class to arrive in the UK. This week prices were announced for the ultimate incarnation of the A-Class - the A 45 AMG will start at £37,845, with first deliveries in August.

Powered by an advanced, hand built four-cylinder turbocharged engine with an output of 360bhp delivered at 6,000rpm and 450Nm of torque between 2,250 and 5,000rpm, it's twinned with a development of the AMG Speedshift DCT 7-speed sports transmission and AMG 4MATIC all-wheel drive.

THE MERCEDES-BENZ A 45 AMG: From £37,845.

Combining mighty performance - it can accelerate from a standstill to 62mph in just 4.6 seconds - with refinement, the A 45 AMG can return 40.9mpg on the combined cycle while emitting 161g/km of CO2. Backing up the performance are styling enhancements, split between delivering a more imposing look and fulfilling functional requirements. A new front bumper with extensions to the air dams to feed the intercooler is joined by a new AMG grille, a deep front splitter and, at the side of the car, gloss black sill extensions. A new braking system, springs and dampers are behind twin five-spoke 18-inch wheels. At the back, a new bumper sits above a bespoke exhaust system. The A 45 AMG is available in a choice of eight colours and three wheel designs in either 18- or 19-inch diameter.

Inside, the extensive changes continue - AMG Performance seats, fitted as standard, with red stitching, red nappa leather provide enhanced lateral support. A sports steering wheel in nappa leather with red stitching, red seats belts and the AMG badge on the seats add to the exclusive AMG feel along with carbon weave, textured trim.

The AMG Drive Unit, allowing the selection of the gears from the centre console, is joined by metal paddle shifters located behind the steering wheel. A unique AMG electronic display located between the instrument dials, DAB and Audio 20 with iPod and Bluetooth connectivity are also fitted as standard.

Marauders are too strong for Blackjacks

HAVERHILL Blackjacks saw their winning streak come to an end with a 13-7 defeat at home to London Marauders in British Baseball Federation, A Pool South.

Steve Phillips gave Blackjacks a 1-0 lead in the first inning after Matt Schellhaus struck out the first three London batters.

But poor fielding and erratic pitching from Schellhaus allowed Marauders to go 3-1 up after two innings and they increased their lead to 7-2 following the third innings.

The visitors continued to dominate the game to lead 12-4 after six innings before Schellhaus regained his form with the ball to strike out the opposition quickly in the seventh innings, while Haverhill added three runs.

London were restricted to just one more run in the last two innings, but Blackjacks will have plenty to work on before their next match at Herts Raptors.

Tappin eyes six-hour barrier

■ ATHLETICS: Jack Tappin produced a rousing performance to dramatically reduce his personal best in the Cotswold 113 Triathlon.

The half-Ironman distance consisted of a 1.2-mile swim, a 56-mile cycle and 13.1-mile run and Haverhill triathlete Tappin completed the course in 6hr 9min 6sec.

"I'm pleased to have shaved 10 minutes off my last race and really enjoyed the course, and the weather was much better than in Bradwell last month too," said Tappin (right).

"It's always hard to pace yourself when there are faster athletes whizzing past, but I'll keep training and hopefully can beat the six-hour barrier soon."

Ace Whiting earns an England chance

LEWIS Whiting has been invited to attend England Golf trials.

The 15-year-old Haverhill Golf Club member is riding high after equalling the course record while finishing runner-up in the Suffolk Amateur Championship to add to an impressive campaign.

And now he has been contacted by England Golf to attend trials in September.

Last weekend, Whiting was joined by clubmate Chris Vince in contesting Suffolk Golf Union's President's Mashie, for the top 16 seeded available players at the county championships.

In the first round, Whiting was drawn against Felixstowe Ferry's George Copsey, who he confidently beat 5&4 to progress to the quarter-finals.

Vince joined him in the last eight by beating Offord Park's Josh Robertson 2&1 and he replicated that score against Rookery Park's Chris Soanes to move into the semi-finals.

Whiting took on Diss Golf Club's Chris Bartrum, the 2012 losing finalist, in the quarter-finals but he was beaten on the first hole of a sudden death play-off.

Defending matchplay champion Vince saw off No 4 seed Nathan Overton, from Woodbridge, two up to set up a replay of last year's final as he again faced Bartrum.

The match was all square after 12 holes, but tremendous recovery shots on the 13th allowed Bartrum to go one up with a birdie.

It was a similar story on the 14th as the Diss player went two up and his run continued by winning the 15th to go three up. Vince had to win the 16th to keep the match alive, but he was unable to do so and ended up losing 3&2.

Lack of bowling options cost Haverhill

LOSING bowlers Amit Gupta and Nigel Brunning cost Haverhill as they suffered a six-wicket defeat at the hands of Hadleigh in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

Leading wicket-taker Brunning had to drop out late on due to family reasons, while Gupta was only fit enough to bat.

The hosts batted first and slipped to 20 for 3 after a poor start.

Gupta managed to amass 32, Anthony Phillips hit 23 and Luke Youngs made a fine 94 not out as they recovered to post 195 for 8 - with a mid-innings break - in a match reduced to 45 overs due to rain.

But having fewer bowling options, as well as seeing a number of lbw appeals turned down, meant Hadleigh were able to reach 196 for 4 with three overs remaining.

"We didn't get the rub of the green, but Hadleigh outplayed us," said Simon Youngs.

"Losing Nigel and Amit to bowl was huge and may have cost us the result."

"Because every other game was abandoned we have lost nothing in the league table so it wasn't all bad."
